Description
In horizontal navigation are two tabs described as profiler. Thats confusing. They should be renamed.  By the way can you explain what a profiler is?

History

this is a general problem with the breadcrumb trail, you just get twice the breadcrumb for the same thing (hence twice the same name) in the profile application every platform user can make his/her own profile and share it with other users.

Most of the explicitly added breadcrumbs should be removed again since they're now added automatically. Not really a bug or error, just something that should be addressed system-wide.
