Description

Hi,

Today I followed a nice workshop about Chamilo 2.0. There, I was told that Chamilo created an own extension (.CPO) to export content. The scorm 'standard' is not suitable because too complicated and not as standard anyway.

Now, my experience as an e-learning advisor for adult education, is that a lot of teachers use external editors to create e-content which they (scorm-wise) import on their e-learning platform. The reason for that is the limited set of features to create assessments. Therefore I would like to ask the developers to provide more possibilities to create exercises. It would be a great help to let teachers and schools find the way to chamilo.

In fact: a large group of schools always ask me if there is no way to make drag and drop-exercises with chamilo (like hotpotatoes). In many learning situations it would be a great opportunity.
