Description
Inside the social tool or the courses listing screens, make it possible for users to ask for a course (a type of "Most wanted" list where people can vote for or against one specific suggestion, and put comments).
This would probably have to be considered as a side-development (a plugin?) where we create a new set of tables (suggestion, suggestion_vote_user, suggestion_vote_comment and suggestion_category or something like that) that store new suggestions.
This could be used for courses as well as for other things (improvement of the users conditions inside or outside the platform, suggestion of events, of new features, of a specific user's ban from the portal, etc).
This has absolutely no priority commercially and should be considered as a possible community development.

- SCRUM pts - complexity changed from ? to 8

Now with the extra user fields, a plugin could easily be developed to insert a new field there and put a ";" separated list of courses (tags format?) that are wanted, then add an entry into the social network called "Wanted courses" that shows the list of courses people choose.

Hot course is a good enough feature to provide this requirement.
