Description

For some reason the bootstrap.css style defines input fields as 18px in height, which apparently doesn't match the rest of the style in Chamilo, as several forms have text that doesn't appear well inside this 18px height.

I'm not sure I understand the logic of the 18px height setting. Do you know more about it?

In particular (but that also affected the installer at some point in the past), the "Assignment name" field in the creation of a new task is too narrow, and when you write "Test", for example, the top part of the "T" is hidden by the top of the input box, which provokes an uncomfortable feeling.

Please fix that, somehow, and report here on the cause, so others can fix this somewhere else if necessary.

I can't reproduce this error. Works fine for me in FF 28 and Chrome 34.
