Forum description is plain text

When creating a forum, information can be entered in the description field. This field is the advanced WYSIWYG-editor. Yet, when formatting the text, all you end up is a plain text. Not even line breaks are implemented.

Jurgen, any chance you could confirm with a test on https://1.10.chamilo.org/ ?

Hi Yannick,
I tried it, it seems to work fine.

Just one minor detail: when putting an image in a category description, things don't always grow along. I created 2 empty forum categories in attached screenshot.

We've added a "display: inline-block;" to the CSS class ".forum-description", and this solved the problem (which only appeared when the image was aligned to the left, so relatively minor). You'll need to update the cache (which will regenerate the web/css/ folder) to see the difference, but I'm already closing the task considering it was only a minor display issue.
